CD44 is an antigen found on the cell surface of many cells. It is a cell surface receptor that mediates cell-cell and cell-substratum interactions, and is involved in a wide range of functions. In a previous study, we reported that expression of CD44 is increased on synovial cells in rheumatoid arthritis (RA). The aim of this study was to determine if the increased expression of

CD44 on synovial cells in patients with RA is associated with expression of the endogenous human CD44 (hCD44). Synovial fibroblasts and macrophages were isolated from patients with RA and were incubated with interleukin-1 beta (IL-1) or conditioned
